Approved with two abstentions.

   c. Vice President: Motion to approve nomination of Kaitlin Flynn as VP moved by Chris and seconded by Nina. Kaitlin says a few words about what she’s interested in pursuing as VP including uniting the graduate student 8. RSG Logistics
   a. Representative expectations
      i. Board meetings
         1. Representatives are required to attend board meetings. Michael will grant excused absences and academic, research purposes will take priority over RSG. Each individual gets up to 3 unexcused absences per their elected term. Email Michael with reasoning for excused absences and they can and will remain confidential.
         2. Will Hutchison’s seat will be vacated due to 6 unexcused absences. Michael asks for a motion to either overturn his decision to evict Will’s seat. Motion moved by Alex T. and seconded by Chris. Heidi objects the motion to overturn the decision. Michael asks for objections and the motion is objected with 3 abstentions. There is now a vacancy in Division IV.
      ii. Committees
         1. We have 9 committees, with the non-academic career opportunity committee possibly being combined with student life. Members must attend committee meetings, per the bylaws. Committees meet biweekly, and the times will be determined by the members of the committee. Committee chairs are asked to send out doodle polls for a meeting by next week. Committee chairs also are responsible for the attendance policy. Committee budgets will be due within the next week.
      iii. Events
         1. Jorge Cham event (PhD comics) coming at end of January. The board is invited to dinner with him and Michael will send out an email soon. There are a number of social events coming up, including seeing the Red Wings, Valentine’s day event, St. Pats day event, Pistons game, family friendly events, etc etc etc. If any board members want to see events happen, they should contact the execs. Individual projects also apply.
      iv. Constituent contact
         1. As an RSG member, we should be communicating with our constituents, attending department and programmatic events, become available for students, etc. We will also be hosting office hours.
   b. Committee membership
      i. Committee membership slate included in the packet. If you’d like to join a different committee, ask the execs to add you. Committee descriptions and quorum are listed in the packet (taken from the community and effecting change at the academic and federal level. Approved with one abstention. This nomination is effective immediately. bylaws). Chris asks if quorum would change under addition or subtraction of members and the answer is yes.

ii. Committee changes: Chris Tom would like to be added to AAC. Ben and Andrew would like to be removed from AAC. Budgetary committee, removal of Mindy Waite and addition of Alex T and Kaitlin F. Communications committee: we’re considering consolidating this committee because most of the work is done by the execs. Throughout the committee slates, we will replace the Treasurer with Alex T and VP with Kaitlin. Elections committee: elections director will eventually be hired. Still, we need to further appoint the elections committee slate: Division I: Eli Benchell Eisman. Division II: Andrew. Division III: Marisol. Legislative Affairs: Chris Tom is added, Haven Allen is added to the committee. Student Life: no changes. Community outreach and social action committee: Eli explains the committee and volunteer opportunities that are coming up. Changes: Heidi would like to be added. Ben would also like to be added. Patrick introduces his post graduate career opportunities committee and we discuss some of the issues currently surrounding it. Adding Alex Emly and Tien to this committee for the time being. Motion to approve moved by Chris and seconded by Dan. Approved unanimously.

c. Social gathering
d. Food @ meetings policy
   i. Up until last term, some food was included in the budget for RSG board meeting and the thought was to give the board a snack while they’re at the meeting. Michael asks for a motion, Andrew makes a motion to have food at meetings and seconded by Ben. Andrew asks for more clarification and Heidi mentions that the GEO endorsed candidate platform included not having food as a campaign promise. Pete asks a question if having food affected attendance in a positive way. Michael answers that it helped in some way but he doesn’t want it to feel like a bribe. Haven asks how much 8% of the budget is and Michael answers that over the course of a term we spent about $800. Andrew asks what percent of our budget is left over and if we could include that in our food money. Haven asks if productivity changed when we had food or if the meetings were longer. Michael says that it depends on who’s chairing. Pete asks if these are public meetings and if we provide food for them. Michael says that anyone who attends is welcome if the food is ‘free for all’. Kaitlin brings up that previous board discussion has been indicative of general laziness in picking up, ordering, or reimbursing for food. Michael describes how the food ordering would work. Heidi mentions that RSG t-shirts was an example of another controversial issue. Alex T mentions that it can be a little awkward when you have funding requests come in and everyone is eating, etc. Michael mentions that we do offer our guest speakers to eat with us. Tien also mentions that we have provided snacks in the past. Haven asks about specific monetary cost involved with food. Michael explains that there is not a set dollar amount but going up to $1000 would be probably maximum without impacting other efforts. Haven also asks if there’s a better use for these funds, such as community outreach. Andrew asks what our general budget is overall and Michael says that we’ll have $20-25,000 to operate with. Haven asks if that includes overhead and Michael says that it does include overhead, such as copies. Chris Tom brings up that he has events before and after the meeting and mentions that he would like to have food to rely on for cogency. Patrick says that he finds that its incongruous that we generally don’t fund food for student groups. Michael explains the current dichotomy between food funding for groups, generally the idea is that we don’t fund extemporaneous food but we don’t have a well-defined policy. Kaitlin says that she doesn’t think we should do it. Motion to end the debate by Michael, seconded by Haven. This motion is approved with 2 abstentions. The current motion is now to have food or not at the meetings for snacks, meals or otherwise. Motion comes to a vote: 4 approvals, 8 opposals, 3 abstentions.

e. Office hours
   i. Next week we will be passing around a sheet for office hours time and location. Can be at any time as long as its in an accessible location. Nina asks if we could have accessibility to the website to change our office hours in the case of illness.

f. RSG email list usage
   i. Michael lists the email lists that will go to the board, exec, or each individual execs. Committees also have their own listservs.
   ii. Minutes: the VP is currently taking minutes, but board members are encouraged to consider taking minutes to help offset the workload.

9. Winter 2012 goal setting session
   a. Goal setting will take place next week as we’re running out of time. Michael charges everyone with the task of coming up with events and goals and at the next meeting we’ll charge tasks to various committees.

10. Open discussion
   a. Kaitlin brings up the social gathering
   b. Tien Notes that Students from all departments are allocated the same amount of free printing per semester from ITS. Departments that offer more printing are responsible for the difference in cost. When asked if the amount of printing per student could be increased, ITS responded that they are providing as much free printing per student as they can afford. Therefore, if students wish to have more printing, they will need to bring it up to their home departments.

11. Adjournment. Moved by Tien and Seconded by Haven. Adjourned at 8pm

2ND FLOOR WEST STUDY ALCOVE, NORTH STUDY HALL
6:30 P.M.

Absent (Excused): Nina

1. Call to Order: 6:39pm

2. Approval of Agenda
   a. Motion to approve by Alex E and seconded by Tien. Approved unanimously.

3. Community Input
   a. Eugene Daneshvar: Eugene is a sixth year PhD in Biomedical Engineering and has been here as an undergrad and beyond. He brings up questioning IP ownership conflict of interest oversight and wondering where we as GSRAs go to get assistance with breaches in this contract. In brief: Eugene's former advisor owns a company and after Eugene disclosed his invention to his advisor, the advisor suggested Eugene use the invention as his thesis project. Meanwhile, his advisor filed for a patent for Eugene's idea through his company and didn't inform the University or Eugene that he had done this and had a conflict of interest in this issue. The advisor did not notify the University until the patent application had gone from a provisional to advanced status. Eugene did not learn about this breach of trust until this August, even though the patent was filed in 2007. He has had to change his advisor too. The first issue he says is IP theft. The second issue is unethical exploitation by his department. When this problem began to arise, he insisted on having a co-advisor. The department chose to fund Eugene as a GSI position and then raised the issue of conflict of interest. Later Eugene won a student business competition and then the department said that he should use the grant money to pay for his stipend that was paid while he was GSling. Finally, Eugene threatened to contact the funding agency and the department. Final questions: what is our IP ownership? Are we students or employees? And what should we do when our departments ask us to do something unethical?

   i. Michael comments that there is a document (SPG303.4) where the University declares that the IP ownership belongs to the University when students are employees, but not when they are students. While the Reagents recently voted to consider GSRAs as employees. The Reagents made a clarification that the employee definition does in fact include GSRAs. Heidi makes a motion to extend time by 5 minutes, seconded by Chris.

ii. Dan asks if this issue could be addressed by collective bargaining. Eugene answers that not every problem could be solved this way, but his particular case is a good example for a place in which collective bargaining could be useful. He thinks that collective bargaining could bring the issue of ‘relatedness’ to the table—how related is a thesis project to an invention?

iii. Heidi asks if Eugene has lawyers. Eugene says that he has spent $5,000 of his personal money on a lawyer. This is because he feels that he doesn’t have anyone to go to as his department head was unhelpful.

iv. Haven asks if he has documentation about emailing his advisor. Eugene says that he has multiple levels of paper trail, including emails, his thesis project, the patent application. Eugene argues that if he had known his rights in 2007, he would have walked away and filed an IP. But he wasn’t aware of his rights and used some University resources, so this also complicates things. Dan asks for further clarification regarding the timeline of Eugene’s acceptance.

v. Lauren asks how related Eugene’s invention idea was to his thesis work. He says his invention was within the field but unrelated to his project.

b. Ethan Eagle: Former RSG rep. coming to talk briefly about the capriciousness with which faculty members can treat their graduate students. He feels that it’s strange how students can be let go by their advisors for various or vague reasons. He argues that the continuous enrollment dispute resolution board does not necessarily address all concerns by students who feel victimized by their professors or situations. Ethan does not believe that the solution of forcing the relationship to continue between unwilling advisors and students (such as a union response) is not the right answer. Ethan says that we do not have protection for the possibility of being fired by students and asks what procedures we have for students who feel victimized by their advisors. He is wondering if there is or could be some sort of governing body that would work as some sort of mediator to allow students, advisors and another body to sit down and look critically at the student’s progress prior to being fired or terminated from their program.

i. Michael mentions that our current Academic Affairs Committee is working on the Graduate Student Bill of Rights and looking at how we could enforce these sort of issues best.

ii. Heidi mentions that there are UM student lawyers that could be contacted in some of these issues. She also comments that GEO is portrayed here as forcing the issue, but she mentions that they could be also working with the student in mind.

iii. Eli asks how the dissertation committee plays into this decision making process in engineering. He also mentions that Darlene Ray Johnson is the graduate Ombudsman and functions as a dispute resolution officer. Ethan asks then if Darlene Ray Johnson sees each person who has been dismissed. Eli answers that the thesis committee and the department all see students who might be terminated. Alex T motions for 5 more minutes of discussion, seconded by Kaitlin. Eli continues on to explain how in his own situation there were multiple levels of involvement with committee members, the advisor, and the department. Ethan answers that as far as he’s aware, the PI can make decisions about the student’s employment without authorization from the thesis committee. Eli then asks if there is a conflict of interest statement that all students see. Eugene makes the point that without enforcement policy is useless.

iv. Alex T asks if Ethan believes that another resolution board could be helpful for these situations. Ethan thinks that absolutely such a committee would be helpful, somewhere that Eugene could go and bring his evidence.

v. Pete asks if other schools have policies to deal with this and Michael mentions that we already have such committees in place and charges the Academic Affairs committee with looking into this issue further.

4. Approval of Previous Minutes: motion to approve the minutes by Heidi and seconded by Chris. Tien objects and asks for further explanation regarding printing quota as featured in the Open Discussion section. Tien offers to write up a small blurb to put into this section. Motion to postpone for a week by Chris, seconded by Pete. Approved with one abstention.

5. Officer Reports

a. President report: Michael brings up the GSRA situation with Jennifer Dibbern. We have invited her to the next meeting to speak at the board. Michael says that we as a body need to look into this situation to ensure that students aren’t treated in this manner in the future. Michael says that we will offer help that our board can offer. Michael also mentions that the Academic Affairs committee and the Student Life committees have met. They have nominated Tien and Chris as AAC co chairs, and Alex E as chair and Ann as the vice chair for Student Life. Motion by Haven and seconded by Patrick, approved with 5 abstentions. Michael mentions that we will also be having many guest speakers visiting the board soon and we’ll be discussing with the board the week before to ensure we’re all up to speed.

b. VP report

Kaitlin discussed RSG representative office hours and asked each rep to provide a minimum of 1 hour every other week when they will be available to constituents. Also, per Michael’s MOU with MSU, Michigan will be participating in the 4th Annual Graduate Academic Conference in East Lansing. This year’s conference will be held on March 30th and abstracts are due by Monday January 23rd. There will be an RSG Board social event in the near future.
c. Treasurer report: $16,800 in the bank. Alex T needs budgets from each committee. He’d like committees to get budgets to him by Monday or Tuesday. Student Life met and wants to have a karaoke night at Circus next Thursday at 9pm. We could also have our board social event at this time. Alex makes a motion to allocate $250 and have the event. Dan asks what the money pays for and the answer is for karaoke and the DJ and speakers for grad students for four hours. Michael wants to take an official vote by roll call. Moved by _____ and Seconded by _____. The vote carries 14-0-2.
